

There's Always a Bar

By
Doug Trabel
© 2005

I screwed up, I done her wrong,
Then I lied, and now she's gone.
So I sent her roses, and I washed her car.
And if that don't work, there's always a bar.

Well, I write her a love poem, with heart dotted "I's."
Sat on her front porch and almost cried.
Then I called her Mama, and had a heart to heart.
But if that don't work, there's always a bar.

Chorus:

Yeah there's always a bar anytime you feel the need to just get out and breath
Or anytime you're in a fight and you had better leave.
Always a bar anytime you need a beer, or someone to talk too
Or anytime you're in a bind and you don't know what to do.

Verse 2:

Well I rented an airplane, and wrote her name in the clouds.
Followed by I love you, let's work this out.
But she says this time, I went too far.
So if that don't work, well there's always a bar.

Well here she comes, with another man.
Hey what's she wearin on her left hand.
Well I don't worry, and it ain't hard
Cause it's still early, and there's always a bar.

Repeat Chorus:

Ending verse:

Well I learned me a lesson, of what not to do.
The next time your woman, walks out on you.
Don't send her roses, don't wash her car
Just save your money, and invest in a bar.

Repeat Chorus:

Songwriter's Notes

What's a country song without a little, drinking, lying, and cheating? The best part is, you did all that, got caught, she left, and well, you're good with that, cause you got a fall back plan. "I screwed up, I done her wrong, then I lied and now she's gone."

Those words came out of my mouth almost too quick one night and Debi laughed hysterically so I knew I had something.

This was by far one of the fastest songs I ever completed. It was done in minutes, and remains a crowd favorite almost every place I play.

You all know you wanted to, just once!